Glenwood Springs, CO, June 5, 2015 – SGM, Western Colorado’s largest full-service engineering, surveying and consulting firm announced today that it has been named a 2015 Colorado Companies to Watch winner. This award is given to high performing, second stage companies that develop valuable products and services, create quality jobs, enrich communities, and create new industries throughout Colorado. With over 1,200 applicants, SGM was one of only 50 Colorado companies to receive the award.

“SGM has provided innovative engineering and surveying services for mountain, resort and rural communities in Western Colorado for 29 years,” says Louis Meyer, SGM President & CEO. “We’re honored to be recognized for our growth, culture, and influence in our industry. This award is a reflection of the grassroots contributions, dedication, work ethic and creativity of our entire staff. It also reflects our ability to meet the technical engineering challenges and opportunities that are unique to our mountain environment and culture. We hope to continue enhancing the quality of life of the communities we serve for years to come.”

Colorado Companies to Watch works to recognize the driving economic forces in the state by focusing not merely on growth, but on the true impact and influence of an organization. By focusing on second stage companies across the state, the program offers distinct insight into the state’s economic landscape and recognizes organizations for the critical impact they have in their industries, communities and regions, as well as our state as a whole.

“We are pleased to recognize SGM for their outstanding contribution in fueling the economic fire of Colorado. Thank you SGM,” says David Tolson, Colorado Companies to Watch Board Chairman.
